Riptide is a 1992 hull manufacture year and a 1993 model year. She is a clean example of the Corsica. The aft cockpit is very spacious and has ample seating. You also gain access to the spacious fly bridge via the port side ladder. The aft cockpit is self-draining and has a full canopy fitted. The Flybridge benefits from enough seating for 6+ people, the helm position is central to give you maximum all round visibility. The helm seat can also face aft. The engine controls are repeated Access to the deck saloon is through the sliding doors. Stb side has a large 'L' sofa with a fold away double bed. Port side has ample storage space, a drinks cabinet and a beer fridge. The saloon is very light and airy thanks to the large windows. Riptide's helm position is very comfortable and has the popular double helm seat which also has stowage beneath. The helm has a nice feel to it with a clear driving position and easy-to-read instrument fascia. The helm is Stb side, mid ship. There is also a chart table in clear view. The table has chart stowage. Day to day access to the engines is via the inspection hatch in the saloon floor. You then step down in to the well-equipped 'U' shaped galley which is fitted with a two ring gas hob, oven and grill, two sinks, hot and cold water supply, fridge, and ample work surface and storage. The guest suite is located stb side and is fitted with two single berths with stowage beneath and wardrobe. There are individual over-head berth lights and opening port holes. The guest suite is a generous size and feels very comfy. The toilet/shower compartment is opposite the guest suite. It's spacious and well finished. It's fitted with a manual sea toilet, shower, hand basin, hot and cold water supply, large mirror, stowage and an opening port hole. The master suite is forward and has a double offset bed which has two drawers beneath. There is a large wardrobe, two dressing tables, and eye line cupboards on both sides, large mirror, opening port holes and a large hatch with curtains. The master cabin also has a Jack and Jill door through to the shower/toilet compartment.
